COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Several people have inquired about the date to expect the tax bills for 1964. The only answer that I can give for a date is two weeks after the assessing is finished. The group doing the commercial property appraisals is not finished so the tax bills will be held up until two weeks after the appraisers are done. The question of the tax rate for the year also is asked when the tax bills are discussed. The final rate is not determined until the total valuation of the town is known. The amount of money raised at town meeting is divided by the total taxable valuation of the town to determine the rate. By simple arithmetic all of the values of property in town are then multiplied by the tax rate and the town has enough money to cover the amount raised at town meeting. An estimate of the tax rate for this year would have to be about 41 mills which is the same as last year.

The tarring has to be dragged out several days longer than usual because of the rain and threats of rain. One more good day should finish it up. The whole crew worked all day Monday cleaning up the leaves and branches that covered the streets after the hail storm Sunday morning.

I received a letter from Mr. Chadwick of the Maine Forest Service this week stating that he was concerned about the spread of dead Elm trees in Bethel. He urged that some action be taken to remedy the situation.

I hope a public meeting can be arranged the week of July 20th to let people know the seriousness of the elm problem in town. If a meeting can be arranged, it will be announced in next week's paper so that all interested citizens can attend.

Michael Honihan

Some of the hail stones which fell during the storm early Sunday morning were still present around the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall, Monday morning.

The Bethel Junior Baseball League wishes to express its sincere thanks to all the local organizations, businesses, and people who made last Saturday such a success.

GRAYLING REPORTED IN MAINE WATERS

A new fish in Maine waters has been discovered near the New Hampshire border. Fishery Biologist Charles Ritz and Game Warden John Swasey each reported that grayling have been caught in the Magalloway River and the Rapid River.

Only a few of the grayling have showed up. "Buster" Williamson of Upton caught a 9" one at Magalloway Falls and two 12" fish in the Rapid River. He reported also that he saw a 1 1/2-pound grayling taken by another angler on the Rapid.

The New Hampshire Fish and Game Dept. stocked 10,000 young grayling experimentally last year in the Dead Diamond River, and it's probable that some of them have found their way into the Maine waters. Sizes of those reported would indicate a good growth rate for the small fish.

Grayling resemble trout and salmon somewhat although they have a much larger dorsal fin. They are considered good sport fish and a fine food fish.

A species that is quite exacting in its living requirements, the grayling needs clean, cold water and cannot stand much competition from other species. However it survives in these northern New England waters will be watched closely.

Frederick Stanley and Kenneth Dolans visited Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stanley and Edward in New Jersey last week. While there they attended the World's Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mundt, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Coolidge, Tommie and Herbert Coolidge, are enjoying a two week's vacation at Hermit Island camp ground, Small Point.

Water level at the reservoir is now satisfactory. The use of hand hoses and lawn sprinklers may be resumed. BETHEL WATER COMPANY

PLANS MOVE AHEAD FOR MOLLOYCKETT DAY

Molloyckett Day, an all day bazaar sponsored by the Bethel Health and Service Council, will be held August 1.

All events of the day are in the busy planning period. Children's events are being arranged by Mrs. Mary Schein, chairman of the pet show; Louis Sargent, who will head the fishing derby; Mr. and Mrs. John Lohman, co-directors of the NTL day camp are planning field events. Mrs. Dana Douglass will have charge of the Papoose Reservation, and Ernest Blake will offer cart rides to the kiddies.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Stevens, co-chairmen of the auction, have announced that Stuart Martin will serve as auctioneer. Anyone having articles which they would like to donate should notify Ronald Stevens or Steve's Garage. Arrangements will be made to pick up the items if necessary.

Mr. and Mrs. John Greenleaf, co-chairmen of the Molloyckett Day Parade, report that more floats are still needed. The band is also being organized. This parade is a big highlight of the day and is responsible for getting everyone in the "spirit" of the day. Interested participants not yet contacted should call John Greenleaf. Further information concerning costumes and prizes to be awarded will be announced later.

Mrs. E. J. Webster and Mrs. Robert D. Hastings are meeting this week to make final arrangements for the new craft exhibit. Mrs. Bruce Bailey and Mrs. O. H. Anderson, who are organizing the art exhibit, have announced that Miss Alice Capen has again offered the use of her barn for this popular exhibit. Special features of both exhibits will be itemized next week.

COOPERATION is the most important part anyone can play in a community event such as this bazaar. There are many ways in which each of us can help to make this annual affair a successful occurrence. If you are called upon, be willing to help; if you are not called upon, be willing to volunteer.

DIVINE MEANINGFULNESS THROUGH FAITH AND LOVE

Many people today are over-come with the seemingly meaningless existence they live. Their daily lives appear to be without importance. It is absurd, they unconsciously think, to imagine themselves or their lives important.

This kind of attitude is completely alien to a believer. Faith is an answer to meaninglessness and responsibility. Faith is a "we" coming from our deepest selves, affirming the value of our daily efforts to make something of our lives. The more difficult the circumstances of our everyday existence the more intense and authentic will be the faith which is demanded. And if our very lives themselves are regarded, as in the case of the good right workers on Magalloway, we will discover that there is no more intense kind of life than death freely suffered for principle. Human beings are like candle flames which are looked at and kept intact. If they are not kept alive by the flame of love and something there seems to be the fire.

These thoughts are not cold, are not theories, are not theories, are not theories. They are God's, from Himself and I have come to regard love as the word which is the key to the world. He who has the life will find it. Thinking will not achieve the depths of the wisdom of God as found in His Bible. Only the person who has begun to experience the truth of the gospel will be able to understand the deepest meaning of Christ.

No two paths to the wisdom of Christ are the same. Each of us must make our own path for or against Christ — but, even

WHY A BEACH PATROL?

Next Monday starts the 4th week of Red Cross swimming lessons at Songo Pond. Mrs. Hope Tibbets has charge of getting mothers from the Bethel area for Beach Patrol. The fifth week (July 27) is in charge of Mrs. Lee Hutchins, and the sixth week (Aug. 3) is Mrs. Henry Robertson. Mrs. Lawrence Bailey Jr. has East Bethel for all six weeks. Mrs. Duke Boyd is soliciting West Bethel next week and Mrs. Roger Wheeler has the fifth and sixth weeks.

At times it is hard to find two mothers available and willing to go out to the pond for a couple hours, as so many work and others have several small children at home. As a full time instructor is hired one might wonder why a beach patrol is needed, and what they do.

On each busload there are between 25 and 40 healthy youngsters of about the same age. They are divided into 3 or 4 groups for classes. While Martha Keniston is giving lessons to one group there are about 25 boys and girls on the beach or in the water that need a little supervision. The mothers watch to see that there is no sand throwing, etc. and rough-housing around the bath stalls. They aren't expected to go in the water but are given a whistle call or see anyone that needs Martha's help. She has been to a qualified aquatic school and passed rigid tests in Senior Life Saving and First Aid.

As the bath stalls have to be shared by several there are usually glasses, jewelry, and pocketbooks to hold. It is a good idea to check the stalls after all have dressed as towels and bathing suits are often left. Another duty is to help the bus driver count the children that get off the bus and see that the same number is on to go back. If for some reason a child only rides one way he is to report this to the bus driver or beach patrol.

If working mothers have a day off, or anyone has a relative or friend interested in spending a couple hours helping out, why not volunteer when it is most convenient. You can ride out on the bus. The people to call are listed and your child can figure out what days he will be taking his lesson for the rest of the season. The children are all agreeable and eager to learn to swim. Please help us to keep this a Water Safety Program.

more critical, we must throw ourselves wholeheartedly into living out our option. In this process we will experience the truth of our choice (assuming it be for Christ). The distinguished psychiatrist Viktor Frankl has written of the three years he spent in concentration camps in the midst of conditions of indescribable brutality and human degradation. Yet, despite all this suffering and destruction of human values Dr. Frankl found a new and deeper meaning to life.

"... for the first time in my life I saw the truth as it is set into song by so many writers. The truth—that love is the ultimate and highest goal to which man can aspire... that the salvation of man is through love and I am here. For the first time in my life I was able to understand the meaning of the words, 'the angels are lost in perpetual contemplation of an infinite glory.' I sensed my spirit passing through they enveloping glow. I felt it transcend that hopeless, meaningless world, and from somewhere I heard a victorious 'Yes' in answer to my question of the existence of an ultimate purpose." (From Death Camp to Existentialism, pp. 94-95)

Each one of us has a unique set of circumstances—but if we are believers we are led by the same Spirit of the living Christ. We can predict much from one another's faith and insight. God has spoken to man in the community of men, not in isolation. For this reason the study of God's revelation, the Bible, is most profitable in groups where each participant prepares and prays before the discussion. We are presently having such discussions and will come any newcomers with open arms. Anyone interested should contact Mrs. Nancy Gross, Locke Mills, phone 475-2433 or Heather Edward Walsh.

dian princess who was denied her true heritage when her tribe was ravaged by an epidemic of smallpox. As a "displaced" person who refused to leave her tribal area when the remnants of her tribe moved northward into Canada, Mollyockett successfully bridged the span of two cultures and her name has lived on from the eighteenth century to become a symbol of wisdom and friendliness, mixed with the lore of buried treasure, the incantation of an oath, and the rescue of a white man from certain death.

Mollyockett's birthdate is not known, but when she died and was buried in Andover in 1816, it was recorded that she was over 100 years old and she was listed as the last of Pequakets although she told many settlers she was a St. Francis Indian. This apparent contradiction is explained by the fact that early in the 18th century the Canadian authorities invited the Indian tribes of Western Maine to make settlements on the St. Francis River; and two tribes, the Pequakets and the Anasagunticook gave up their ancient tribal names and became the St. Francis Indians.

Mollyockett rightfully retained great pride in her tribal history, and often told how famous and good her father and grandfather had been as tribal chieftains. At such time it would not be hard to visualize her as standing tall and beautiful, with the soft, supple copper tone of skin, glistening hair, glowing vitality and like graciousness that had so inspired some of their country's greatest poets. Her dark eyes gave her an expression of inner fineness and wisdom that was to make her outstanding and welcome long after her beauty and youth had disappeared. But unlike most descriptions of her race, Mollyockett was very loquacious, even engaging in public speaking for new found friends, the Methodists. Possibly, this characteristic is a true indication of her royal birth; as one might suppose a chieftain's daughter to be, more intelligent and because of better training—more eloquent.

With the departure of her tribe from here, Mollyockett became a great traveler, restlessly roaming this whole area with her favorite trek being from Andover through Bethel and on to Paris Hill. In fact, one such trek is the basis for one of the more interesting legends concerning her wisdom and ability as a "doctor." The urge to make this trip in mid-winter inspired by an almost telepathic summons bounded by her beliefs in the Great Spirit, Catholicism and Methodism, all of which had been part of her training and experience, was justified by her saving of an important life and led to her

PLAYERS CANCEL SQUARE DANCE

Bethel Players wish to announce that the square dance scheduled for this Saturday, July 18, at Bingham Gym has been cancelled.

The next square dance will be held on Saturday, August 1, at 8:30 p. m., at Bingham Gym as part of the Mollyockett Day festivities. Bob Hersey, South Windham, professional caller, will be on hand with all the squares and rounds that anyone can do. Members of the "Swinging Bears" square dance club from Albany will assist, and will also do demonstration numbers. Co-chairmen, Earl McAllister and Rosabelle Tift invite all to join in the fun at this big dance which will benefit the Bethel Health and Service Council.

being known as a great "doctor," humanitarian and prophet. The records do not give the details of the suffering she must have endured to fulfill this urge to be in Paris Hill, highlighting only the terrible curse which she, with the help of the Great Spirit, pronounced upon the unfriendly white settlers and their land at Snow Falls because they refused her shelter from a raging blizzard when night caught her short of her destination. Next day when she finally arrived at Paris Hill, she passed several houses as if by plan. When she finally knocked on a door and asked admittance, she was warmly welcomed by gentle folks who distraughtly explained that their baby was dying and that they could do no more to help him. The legend goes that even as they were explaining this sickness, Mollyockett was searching her supply of herbs and told them she had come purposely to take care of their sick child. Dismissing the anxious parents from the sick room, she administered her herb medicines to the baby with all the lore of her culture, covered his fever-racked body with her homemade ointment and wrapped him in layers of blankets, and, gravely, but confidently, told the parents not to grieve—that he would recover. For days she tended the baby, and as he recovered, Mollyockett began to have new feelings. When the time came for her to leave, she blessed the youngster and told the parents that great fame and fortune would be his. Her prophecy was right and many people believe that it was Mollyockett's genius and knowledge that saved Hannibal Hamlin, famous statesman and vice-president of the United States to become the man beloved from shore to shore for his marvelous political insight.

One interesting detail remains. For her services Mollyockett gravely charged her customary fee—one penny, which it is said she hung around her neck in a pocket-like bag, giving rise to the little singing chants of the children who followed her on her lonely way. "Mollyockett has lost her pocket."
